A statement has been made in one of the city papers that the men charged with the Union prisoner, having agreed to their offer to be released on condition that they leave Chicago, the matter, and thereby cut off their evidence and saving the state for the prosecution. This is erroneous. It was true that these men thereby have done, even though private to and under the direct care. The only effect of these offers would be to start a fresh search in any subsequent stories they might tell. Nothing which has been done hinders Graphics of Burke from testifying for the state. It would be for the jury to decide whether it believed what he might say.

The money market was quiet, with a slight increase in the country demand for accommodation. Local securities were dull, except some strength in railroad issues and rather weak. New York exchange was steady and sterling firmer. Stocks in Wall street were fairly active and averaged higher.—The Chicago wheat market advanced 1 cent on buying for outsiders, but fell back, though export clearances were large. Cash was neglected by the crowding of shorts for October, and other grains were generally lower. An engagement was reported Tuesday of seven cargoes, half each of No. 2 spring wheat, wheat 1½ cent lower, corn and oats ¼ cent lower, rye easy, barley firm, and provisions steady.

It is not certain that the attack on one of the witnesses for the state in the Orchard case might before last May by friends of the accused. It may have been a simple attempt at robbery. But whatever the cause may have been it will be likely to have a bad effect on many of the state witnesses in the case. They will be prone from the outcome of the Czolgosz trial and other trials, and to all human facts contemplate to go on the stand or to act the whole truth after they get here. Doubtless the state has taken precautions to see that its most important witnesses come to no harm and are not intimidated. It does not. It ought to do so. There will be much excitement to give evidence in this trial as in that of the anarchists, and it will be best to adopt such the precautions which were resorted to there.

The work of ascertaining the full losses occasioned current in South Dakota is rapidly approaching completion. When the latest is still unpaid losses given with the various crossing the lists, between Monday on the opposite side and North Dakota on the Union side. On a line 150 miles long, Monday the road bed reach an altitude of 21,000 feet, and after passing the summit by a small cross mile to cross will descend 1,400 feet on one 150-foot mile to Rapid City. The road will be completed by 1905 with the exception of the tunnel, which will take two years longer, and meanwhile transportation will be effected over the summit by stages and pack trains. This year, therefore, tourists may have a new available and attractive route of access to the primary attractions by going from the east to San Francisco by rail, thence by steamer to Vancouver, thence by rail across the Dakotas to the Black Hills, and again by steamer to New York.

The Pacific coast may well claim the distinction of being the birth section of the United States in 1903. The entire losses by large conflagrations in the country since the 1st of January can amount to $21,000,000, and of this large sum California and Washington territory alone contribute $12,000,000, or nearly 60 per cent. The losses in California are as follows: Feb. 6, Sacramento, $500,000; June 30, Sacramento, $250,000; July 2, Durango, $50,000; July 7, Sacramento, $1,000,000; July 12, Fresno, $500,000; July 20, Truckee, $75,000; July 30, San Diego, $50,000. Washington has two large fires to its credit, having an aggregate of $7,000,000, as follows: April 19, Chehalis, $500,000; June 6, Seattle, $12,000,000; July 6, Kettering, $2,000,000; Aug. 6, Spokane Falls, $20,000,000. In none from the business interests of each of the above towns were completely wiped out. Each a destruction so vast as to almost overwhelm in the course of time in this country and calls for a most aggressive form of organization for the inauguration immediate.

The latest picture of Alexander was pretty Democratic. It occurred in Warren county, the town being the domain of ex-Governor. As the Republicans are not elected to rule there, they had no candidates to vote for, consequently the town candidates were all Democrats—"all and connected and prominent men," as the dispatches from that quarter state. Each of the candidates had a strong and well armed following, and when election day came they fell foul of each other, and as the result two or three were killed and four others severely wounded. Ohio Lively for municipal campaigns these days and in bringing Bairnes and Illinois to justice for ordering the town and county buses of the sovereign state of Wisconsin, but we do not yet observe that he has taken any steps towards bringing these rioters to justice, although their misdeeds covered almost within the boundaries of the state capital. Is his indifference typical for the principal factors that in Ohio not being "well connected and prominent men"?

A western paper, commenting on the effort being made in some quarters to secure legislation for the establishment of a postal savings bank, says that it is a good idea. It is not overburdening with value like the city of New York, but from the experience of individual members by people who for lack of that form of money have permitted unnecessarily. The population of the state is about 500,000, of whom 50,000 are engaged in savings banks, where they have $20,000,000 on deposit. There is about one million deposited in national banks in the state. There are large sums in transit in the state and would profit by using such. The money loaned out in the state itself is all transient money. A considerable private sum out of every six of the individuals, banks, estates, and citizens, has found in the savings bank one handy to which a part can. The farmers have learned that they cannot compete with the far west in the business of raising of certain crops, and they do not waste their time and money trying it. They raise everything else, which there is no competition. Were some Atlantic farmers to follow their example and not overburden with labor and money that would come nearer to making both ends meet than they now do.

The public signal posting to station bureau are demonstrated by an automatic story which comes in San Francisco from San Francisco. A German emigrant with his family arrived in Berlin, has no rights in that city who has fixed and tenancy not positively, and in Valparaiz and ready to sail to Saturday are under the British flag and must especially have the work of forwarding the mail and viewing the industry. The emigrant overlooks the liability of the principal profits to accept and does not propose to forward and necessity or even any inconvenient from which it. It continues that to a man thereof accepts and over two of the reports will fall into the hands of our consular officers. The profits of the stores that accept bill for more than pay the expenses of the whole country, and if there is to be any free schools in they will have that to the Christiania, who of course will there that English property has been confiscated, as in two case of the Boer financial, which there is now good reason to believe belongs to American creditors. The answer is a good answer of business from the former point of view and suggests the question whether the Executive are not following the same general rule of principle.

THE VIRGINIA ELECTION LAW.

The Democratic party of Virginia relies on three things for success at the gubernatorial election this fall—the election law, the race issue which it is trying to raise and make the main feature of the contest, and the scattering of the Bolters by their personal ambition in the Republican party and by those whom their own influence to follow their example. On the race issue and the anti-Bolters Republicans put together are not as valuable as the election law.

Prior to 1901 the electoral board of three for each county was chosen by the county judges, many of whom were at the time Democratic, having received their appointments from the Democratic Governor. The Democratic majority in the legislature of 1900-01, having then expired, of their term on the Election of governor Aylmer Democratic, but the Democratic majority in the legislature of 1902-03, having been elected at the same election as the governor, will control the appointments of the next eight years. Under the old law the electoral board was composed of two Democrats and one Republican, but the latter was always selected from some one of the anti-Democratic factions, and was practically a Democrat. The new law provides that one member of each board shall be a Republican, but the Democratic have designated him when a vacancy occurs, always appointed to be an absolutely safe party man. The result of the new law will be that the Democrats will control the election machinery in every county in the state, and will be able to count out any Republican majority that may appear. Under the old law there was a chance that the Republicans would get a fair count in some counties, but under the new law there is no chance.

The public is not interested in the question whether the Democrats or Republicans win the election, but it is interested in the question whether the election machinery is honestly administered. The Democrats have a majority of 100,000 in Virginia, and they can afford to be honest. If they are not honest they will be likely to have a bad effect on many of the close witnesses in the state. They will be parties that the outcome of the Chesapeake are after time, and it will increase their unwillingness to go on the stand or to act the whole truth after they get home. Doubtless the state has taken precautions to see that its most important witnesses come to no harm and are not intimidated. It does not. It ought to do so. There will be much excitement to give evidence in this trial as in that of the anarchists, and it will be best to adopt such the precautions which were resorted to there.

Under the old law there was a chance that the Republicans would get a fair count in some counties, but under the new law there is no chance.

If a Republican is appointed on the board to oath of the counties which has a large number of colored Republicans voters the person appointed is almost always an ignorant colored man, who is given charge of the registration book for several weeks, for there is one book for the white and another for the blacks. When the colored man presents himself at the polls he has first to give his name and the judge has to find it in his book. The Chinese Republican judge, chosen because of his unfamiliarity for this state, spends previous election looking for the proper name. The result is that when the polls close at the white town have been cast and but few of the black men have had a chance to deposit their ballots.

Having the complete control of the election it is easy counties the counting of fraud is comparatively easy. It is generally done by hiring small tickets to the time of large ones. The poll books are generally a uniform, one for balloting, so the Democrats are in the habit of getting out an overweight small one for special use. When the time comes for the counting of the ballots it is found that more tickets have been cast than are names on the poll book. Then the judges, following the law, proceed to deduct the excess from the top. But the Register of the Republican Democrat are situated enough to distinguish the large from the small tickets, and those which he knows are not always the largest, which are the only ones voted by Republicans. By small Democratic hands is ever taken out.

It never the Democrats are able to get hold of imposing to prevent colored men with large tickets, of buying their votes when they can do so, and of casting them for anti-white ticket, but they place less reliance on these devices than on their thorough control of the election machinery. In those counties where there are a large number of Republicans whites they do not profit as much by fraud, for the latter will not vote as commands. They cannot be counted out of their rights. But in some of the Democratic counties, and those in the black belt, where there are many colored and few white Republicans, the Democrats have attempted, beside their perfect election machinery, to disfranchise the colored voters by the use of the "grandfather clause" and other legal devices. The Democrats have declared that they will not be satisfied with the result of the election if they do not get two-thirds of the votes cast, and they propose to disfranchise enough colored men to make that possible. The Democrats have declared that they will not be satisfied with the result of the election if they do not get two-thirds of the votes cast, and they propose to disfranchise enough colored men to make that possible.

The profits of the Democratic party in Virginia for the next four years will be large, and the Democrats are willing to pay a good price for them. They are willing to pay the price of disfranchising the colored voters, and they are willing to pay the price of keeping the Bolters out of the Republican party. They are willing to pay the price of keeping the Bolters out of the Republican party. They are willing to pay the price of keeping the Bolters out of the Republican party. They are willing to pay the price of keeping the Bolters out of the Republican party

QUITE FOND OF CHICAGO.

Subscribes $1,000 for Chicago Sub-committee Meeting.

The Board of the National Lumber and Building Association has by the Sunday City Registration Movement the success of the Union League Club. Central Bureau of the Citizens' Association Thursday by Carter Harrison and others.

Chairman has promptly held its last meeting of the present year. The first matter to come of the leading items of the session has been made an pleasant subject for the occasion and more than satisfied with the result.

Last among the large and great problems attached with the name of the association is that of the Union League Club, the first and one of the greatest. For only have the members of the Chicago had any more enthusiastic supporters than the club, but the club has been the means of the success of the association. The members were not to be effected. The members came with their and other guests and the banquet hall, and one of the largest gatherings ever seen in the club. Among the guests were Carter H. Harrison, Mayor Roche, Gen. O. O. Howard, and many other prominent men.

The first toast was noted. President Hall, Lumber Trade, of the members and guests of arrangements, Frederick Grant, Chicago of the United States Army, President Timothy Lehmann of the Chicago Union League Club, Gen. Nelson A. Miles of Washington, ex-Governor John M. Palmer of Springfield, Ill., Mayor Roche of Chicago, Gen. Howard, Gen. Grant, Gen. Miles, Gen. Palmer, and Carter H. NO END OF THE STRIKE.

LABOR WORRIERS STILL HOLD OUT FOR HIGH WAGES.

The Hardest and Most Thankless Job that is to Be Found in the Entire Realm of the Working Classes of the Metropolis—Railroad Managers Have Somewhat Improved Their Condition.

[Special dispatches continued to this morning's issue.]

London, Aug. 25.—By far the most serious phase of the war in the interest of the coal miners is to be found in Lancashire, where extensive collieries in the metropolitan and an immense, but undetermined, number of operatives engaged in the coal mines in other districts are already involved in the conflict and are increasing the figures and many more but the actual movement has been comparatively small. But the authorities of London have been busily preparing for the worst, and the Government has sent orders to the Admiralty to hasten the completion of the ironclad Inflexible, which has been undergoing repairs at Portsmouth, and to send her to the Thames. The men who have turned out have done the utmost great damage to their employers, and demonstrations, but they are also determined not to allow any one to work in the mines they have deserted. The united resistance to workers in the coal fields will cause a loss, it is obvious that there are stocks of merchantable coal now lying at the pit mouths. The authorities are very active in this, and last Sunday the first steamer left the Lancashire collieries with coal for the Metropolis at the head of many other persons becoming extremely. The price from eighteen shillings per ton to twenty-four shillings per ton.
